netfiles data room boasts a modern user interface and a new comments function

New version of the netfiles data room available now

Burghausen, June 14, 2017 – Having completed an extensive round of further development work, netfiles GmbH, one of the leading providers of virtual data rooms in Germany, has launched a new version of its netfiles data room.

The new netfiles user interface provides faster, easier access to the main data room functions, guarantees optimal control and allows documents to be made available and managed with superlative efficiency. Alongside the key data room organization functions, the properties of files and folders can now also be viewed directly – together with direct access to the new comments function. The latter function lets users comment on files and folders, thereby quickly clarifying any open issues and making discussions more efficient.

Apart from a fresh, modern user interface and the new comments function, a series of improvements in the new version of netfiles cover aspects such as the management of access rights in the data room, options for exporting a variety of file lists, and the ability to tailor the appearance of the data room to a given corporate identity. This customizing feature now also include secure file transfer for external users and netfiles e-mails to automatically invite new users and notify existing ones of changes in the data room.

"As we develop and improve netfiles, the practical needs of our users and potential users are the focus of everything we do," says Thomas Krempl, Managing Director of netfiles GmbH. "We don't develop things in an ivory tower: It is the customer who decides what new functions and improvements are added. Above all, a data room has to be fast, easy to use and very secure. The technology should stay out of sight – the focus should be on user-friendliness. Our goal is to enable users to work efficiently with netfiles without the need for extensive training, with a short learning curve and for any and every project."
